

V. Administration

Team ALHR:	The team average of the Average Loaded Hourly Rates (ALHRs) of all individuals who make up team of staff that the Bidder proposes. The Team ALHR is a dollar amount that will be used to determine the Cost Score. The information that is required to determine each Bidder's Team ALHR will appear in Exhibit B Cost Form, Section B-3. If one or more individual members of an AOE team have received a technical score of zero (0), then these members are not included in the Team ALHR calculation. This incentivizes a Bidder to only propose team members who are technically proficient. For example, a team member who has a favorably low ALHR but who receives an individual technical score of zero will hurt the Bidder's Technical Score and will not help the Bidder's Cost Score.
Technical AOE Points:	A number of Points (from 0 to 100) equal to the average score of each individual member of the team that the Bidder proposes for each AOE, rounded to the nearest whole number. This term appears in the table "Scoring Formulas" located after the Definitions section. Each individual member of an AOE team receives a technical score of zero (0) to ten (100) from the Evaluation Committee. Technical AOE Points is the team average, rounded to the nearest whole number. The calculations for each team can be found in the "Evaluation Criteria" of Section IV, Evaluation Process and Criteria on the "Personnel Qualifications" tab of Exhibit A. Technical AOE Points is the number of technical Points that appears next to each AOE on the "Evaluation Criteria" tab of Exhibit A next to the Personnel Qualifications. (The Points next to Contractor Qualifications are not Technical AOE Points.) A special condition is that if one or more individual members of an AOE team receive(s) a technical score of zero (0) from the Evaluation Committee, these low scores are included in the Technical AOE Points calculation. However, Team ALHR (cost) calculations will not include individuals who have received a technical score of zero. This feature of the scoring process incentivizes Bidders to propose only team members who are technically proficient. For example, a team member who has a favorably low ALHR but who receives an individual technical score of zero will hurt the Bidder's Technical Score and will not help the Bidder's Cost Score.
Technical Percentage:	A percentage that is derived from the Technical Score. All Bidders are required to earn a Technical Percentage of at least 70%. {[Technical Score] divided by [maximum Technical Score (700)]} and multiplied by [100%].
Technical Score:	The sum of all technical Weighted Scores. All Bidders are required to earn a Technical Score of at least 490 of the 700 available points in order to be eligible for possible funding.